"P-R-I-D-E, we've got Vike Pride, Lynbrook rules, uh huh!" This familiar cheer may not have sparked any fantastic thought processes while being yelled in the stands at a football or basketball game, but words are wildly significant. Lynbrook students do have pride in their school. Class competitions, at the rallies, at lunch time, and during homecoming week promoted the individual class's spirit. This resulted in the "Most Spirited Class" banner circulating throughout the year. The always-smiling spiritleaders spent their time encouraging enthusiasm in everyone. Students were always willing to support the many clubs and organizations at school (Of course it helps when M&M's, gummy bears, or chocolate bars are included). Developing spirit does not require practice, and there is No Experience Necessary . . . all it takes is pride.

1. Paint Anyone? Lynbrook's new club, The Creative Arts Lab, sparks spirit while practically eliminating the shelf life of the powdered paint in the cove. 2. While cheering them on, Kristen Green was intently watching the varsity football team. 3. Enthusiasm started for the seniors when the parking lot became conservative, yet classy. 4. Work is a four-letter word—unless it means supporting your class. Janice Thayer, Christine Simoni, Cathy Ashbrook, take time to paint scenery for homecoming week. 5. "Runthroughs" are an important part of the halftime festivities, and the spiritleaders strive to do it right!

It's hard not to fit in at Lynbrook. The whole student body is just like a club, but lacking organization. Inside that club there are many other unique smaller clubs. These smaller clubs seem to be closely knit together. Sometimes one club will categorize another. This is stereotyping. Stereotypes have good and bad sides. Stereotyping can be flattering, but then it can also be insulting to one's image. However, stereotyping is not a major issue at LHS, but is a fact of life. Most of us are convinced that we belong in a certain group. So in other words, aren't our groups all different stereotypes?

1. John La Mieux and Dave Turner converse happily with a couple of friends. 2. Two students quietly playing a game. 3. Matt Small, active senior, surprised by the camera. 4. Meagan Lewis, do you think Andy Fleig and Tony Pastore are serious?

Yes! It's that time again already— 6:30 AM on another boring week-day morning. As you stagger on into the bathroom, drab thoughts run through your mind. However, once you splash your face with some cold water, you're all set to jump into the action of another school day. The reason for this is that here at Lynbrook, school can indeed actually be fun!
As reflected by these few pictures, Lynbrook offers great diversity in student activities: sports, academics, lunch-times, and night-life scenarios.

1. The unknown student is getting ready to approach another school day. 2. The Senior Class showing off its spirit at the Homecoming Rally. 3. Some serious studying outside is being attempted by three students. 4. Lunch time presents some crazy Noontime Activities. 5. LINDA NAKAMOTO strutting her stuff during after school volleyball. 6. Night-time is the time for Football, among other activities and social events.

These Are a Few of . . .

"Hey, give me that back! It means a lot to me!" We've all said and heard it. There are some things that we proudly treasure, and possibly flaunt. The adored valuables vary from person to person, but usually one's sex is a deciding factor for what he or she carries around at Lynbrook. Girls, for example, personally treasure things like stuffed animals, elaborately cute keychains, class rings, and purses (What would I do without my purse!). Typically, when something is smaller, girls tend to think it's more adorable. Usually this is not the case with guys. Boys treasure other things outside the realm of cuteness. Close to guys' hearts are their letterman jackets, class rings, and their wallets (which usually contain cash, I.D.'s, and their pictures of girls). Of course, guys are most proud of their cars (Hey, I've got a '78 'Vette with a modified turbo 350 and a huge Alpine stereo. How's that 4X4 you've got?). Whatever the case may be, we can see that our pride in ourselves is genuinely reflected in what we treasure. Vike Pride . . . but in another sense.

"What am I going to wear today?" flashes through everyone's mind each morning as they tear through their closets and drawers searching for the "right" thing to wear. Every Trendy Teri and Fashion Frank go through this daily moment of complexity. But Lynbrook always seems to come out on top of the fashion realm. Fads! Lynbrook's got 'em all. Whatever "it" is, "It's" here. Plaids, paisley, stretch pants (with the stirrups loose), plastic gummy bracelets (on ankles too!), gold broaches, butterfly clips (in the hair), outfits in Red, Black, and White, the list goes on . . . And it seems the standard favorites are still around - Esprit, Guess, and the all-American 501.

LIVE, LAUGH, LUNCH!

Did noontime really get you down? Were you bummed out by academics? Hopefully, the Noon-time Activities got rid of the high school blues! The lunch games were fun, exciting, outrageous (just a little bit) and everyone could be a part just by talking to one of his/her class officers. Participating in games such as "Sedgley Says" (our form of Simon Says), Twister, and Musical Chairs allowed everybody (hey you, frosh!) to GET INVOLVED. There was absolutely no effort required (except trying to keep your sanity) and all you had to do was show up to have a guaranteed good time.

The noontime activities were Lynbrook's newest and most outrageous form of class competition outside of rallies. The class with the most wins at the end of the year will have won the prestigious and sought-after title of "Class of the Year". These "stupid games" were, by far, the easiest way to show class unity and spirit.

SPARE-TIME ADVENTURES

Many Lynbrook students occupy their time in other ways than always hitting the books. Quite a few take work permits in hand and head out looking for some sort of job. This keeps some of 'em busy and lets many of them earn money for the big up-coming weekend or the entrance to the well-known "raver" located "somewhere on Pierce." Others hang out at the local 7-Eleven or get some "grub" at Burger King before seeing "Pee Wee's Big Adventure" for the third time. Even though many of our fellow students do these things, others attend the Lynbrook sporting events and student body functions, or exercise their jaws on the phone for hours, with their "buds" or favorite admirer listening on the other end. Some of the student body do these things, but they also can be found going out to dinner with mom and dad, sitting at home playing computer games with some good friends, browsing through Vallco, or crankin' their favorite tunes through some headphones and dancing to the beat. Let's not forget the few who head to the beach to soak up some rays and ride the waves and those who kick back at their house watching "Leave it to Beaver". Yes, most of our fellow Lynbrook students have devised diversified ways of spending their spare time, but in most cases, it is spent in ways that will reassure us that our high school years are the best years of our lives.

SET SAIL FOR A VIKING VOYAGE

andles

Anchors away, Seniors! The class of '86 finished off spirit week with a bang. On their day, myriads of Vikings in bearskin wraps and college kids in togas could be seen dancing around the viking ship and the Frat house. The viking ship was the huge display in the center of the rally court which represented the year of the Viking. The Fraternity house was another hit. It represented life after high school. The other displays included samples from the seniors' frosh, soph, and junior years. The most visable attraction had to be the senior spirit. The atmosphere was lively and full of fun. Not only did a senior win best costume for every day, but they racked on the points to pull ahead of the competition to become the winners of the week. Yes, once again they received the well deserved honor of first place. Fabulous job, seniors.

CATCH THE SPIRIT!

Yes, kids once again it was time to drag out the old costumes and get in the mood for spirit week-October 28 through November 1. Monday the freshmen set the flow with "Summer Camp". On this day Lynbrook was invaded by camp kids decked out in tee-shirts and bandaged knees. Those spirited sophomores really got things rolling with the "Beach Boardwalk." On this day tourists could stroll down the boardwalk, play games at the booths, get real popcorn, or sneak a peak at the rollar coaster. The ocean and beach were swarmed by surfers, swimmers, sunbathers, and lifeguards lolling around in lounge chairs . . . Wait-was that really Madonna or Rambo or maybe Buckwheat? Don't be mistaken, they were just juniors living it up in Hollywood. The limo, the Hard Rock Cafe, and the M*A*S*H set gave students a peek at what Hollywood is all about. The beach and boulevard were star attractions. Good going, juniors!

COMING HOME

HALFTIME! The unforgettable experience of Homecoming 85-86 began to boil with the coming of royalty. Stately mounted atop classic convertible Sunbeams were freshman Noelle Boehm and senior Steve Hilleary, sophomore Caroline Kelly and senior Don McIntosh, junior Adrienne Tovar and senior Todd McNair seniors Julie Antonelli with Scott Morehouse, Kim Fitchen with Erik Jones, Kristen Green with Tom Alloggiamento, and Carol Stevenson with Dean Dyer. The 1985 Queen, Vicky Stratigopolous, escorted by senior Dave Hoffman, would crown one senior princess as the new Homecoming Queen, and one senior escort would be appointed as the newly-titled King.

After a triumphant fanfare from the Lynbrook marching band, the time of coronation was at hand. The announcement came . . . Their Royal Highnesses Kim Fitchen and Tom Alloggiamento were our new Queen and King! In an appropriate tribute, the lights dimmed and the sky glittered with fireworks for Their Majesties. All hail to the new Viking King and Queen for 1986!

COMING HOME . . . AGAIN

"It was just like last year, like I was a junior again," discovered one LHS senior at the Homecoming dance, which festively capped off the wildness of spirit week. Indeed, many alumni could not resist returning to their alma mater for the annual event. It seemed as if everyone was there!

Another concept, new to the Homecoming dance was a double-bill dance. Two bands, Code Red (a group consisting of LHS students) and Justin's Crib, helped rocket the dance into our fondest high school memories as nearly 1000 Vikes hopped, rocked, shook, swayed, bounced, and ricocheted to the musical electricity of Homecoming.

Eventually, the magic began to come to an end. Hi's, bye's, addresses, and phone numbers were furiously swapped as the Vikings savored the night. Then, literally, came the last dance, Homecoming 1985-86 drew to a very emotional close.

HOMECOMING MAYHEM RULES RALLY

As the Homecoming Rally was kicked off, our spirits were at an all-time high and bound to escalate even higher.

We all cheered on the eight homecoming princesses and their escorts as they played their games of wheelbarrow and piggyback. Who could forget how junior Adrienne Tovar and her accomplice, Todd McNair, were (gasp!) cheating? At the end, Caroline Kelly, Sophomore princess, and her escort, Don McIntosh, rode through it all to the finish line emerging as the winners.

Each class yelled to their heart's content in hopes of capturing the coveted "Most Spirited Class" banner. When the moment came to announce the winner of the rally, we all waited intensely. The victors: The class of '87! The Juniors had put on the best show and took the banner away triumphantly claiming their piece of twenty-one years of Viking history!

As a rare occasion, the Lynbrook Drama Dept. presented, as its winter performances, two one-act plays. "They were great plays;" said advisor Larry Bargetto. "It was fun to work with the kids this year." The first was a totally ironical farce, "with Rod Pauley and Tania Rands in the lead roles. The second show, "The man Who Married A Dumb Wife" another farce, involved a judge (Rod Pauley again) and his mute wife (played by Meegan Blancher). Matt Prull, a minor actor in both plays, summed up the plays by saying that "they were stimulating, mind expanding experiences." Great job, Drama!!

... a night we'll never forget. For most the evening began with dinner ("Hey, no one else is wearing a tux!") and proceeded to the dance floor of the Le Baron Hotel in San Jose. The line for pictures was awful, as one of the cameras was disabled. The band, Shadowtalk, damaged a drum (Thank goodness for the break). We laughed and danced while being serenaded by a singer who had "never sung in front of people before." For Tania Rands, Lynn Stepovich, Nancy Ryle and Carol Stephenson the evening had special meaning. They were all Winter Princesses waiting to hear who would be Queen. Finally the news was announced ... Lynn was presented with the honor and a memory locket. Too soon, the music faded and it was time to leave; another memory of '85 will remain with all.

Sadie Hawkins, that weird hick girl from Wherever, USA, packed up (along with a couple hundred LHS couples) and jammed down to Disneyland for one night, April 4, 1986. Surely, it wasn't a night where hidden speakers would blare out, "enjoy your ride on Space Mountain" in the dark. Yes, it was Disneyland, complete with seemingly millions of Walt Disney characters and the like ... but the only thing blaring in the dark was the resounding thumping of dance music! After a girl picked her guy, took him out to dinner, got him and herself stuffed inside their standardly-outrageous outfits, showed up at the gym, said "hi, you look cute" about a million times, got married, and finally got shot (pictures!), some wild dancing finally got underway! And there we all stood (and danced!), girls clinging to their Husbands-for-a-night, wearing costumes ranging from the traditional Mickey and Minnie up to ... well, some pretty bizaree things!

Friends! Can I have Your Attention Please? ATTENTION PLEASE!!!

It was a true miracle that so many disorganized people could meet together for three months and turn out a perfect musical five separate nights. Such was the scene in preparation for this year's musical, "The Music Man." In the play, a stranger, Harold Hill (played by RodRick Pauley) comes to the small town of River

City, Iowa (played by the stage) and tries to con people into beginning a boys' band because of the terrible trouble in the town caused by the presence of a pool table. Along the way, Harold falls in love with Marion Paroo (played by Jolin Harrison), meets his old sidekick Marcellus Washburn (played by Andy Fleig), gets exposed by Charlie Cowell (played by Dennis O'Brien), and discovers that he has no musical talent whatsoever. Sounds confusing? Nope. It turned out outstanding! As a matter of fact, in the words of Matt Prull, "The Music Man was quite . . . Shipooopi!!!"

That was then . . .

. . . This is . . .

THE YEAR OF THE VIKING . . . "ANCHORS AWAY" . . . OUR CLASS OF 1986 . . . As we curiously entered the gates of Lynbrook High School four years ago, Nineteen Hundred Eighty-six seemed intangible and out of reach. Now, as graduation approaches, it feels like only yesterday our high school career began. These past four years have shaped us into independant individuals, and now, it is our time to go our separate ways. However, inside each of our hearts will remain the memories of the fun times we've shared together at Lynbrook. As freshmen, we amazingly defeated the seniors by winning the first two consecutive rallies with our Hawaiian spirit. The spirit kept flowing with our "western" theme throughout our sophomore year. As juniors, "Childhood Memories" brought us through yet another, excellent successful year. But perhaps strongest in our minds will remain the memories of our senior year . . . "Anchors Away." The scene in the rally court displaying the senior class dressed as vikings dancing around a forty-foot-long Viking ship that was sailing from the port of our past high school years to the unsure port of our futures finally rewarded our class with a four-foot superior trophy to show our first-place winning of Spirit Week. Also in our minds will be memories of rallies, senior parking lot slave days, Senior Ball, Senior Picnic, senior pranks, close friendships, and lets not forget senior headaches of deadlines for deadlines for college applications, financial aid, scholarships, etc. Well, the time has finally arrived to set sail and pull up the anchor . . . "The greatest adventure is what lies ahead; today and tomorrow are yet to besaid; the chances, the changes, are all yours to make; the mold of your life is in your hands to break." The time is now seniors, June 12, 1986, is our challenge to make it happen and to follow through on the pursuit of our dreams GOOD LUCK CLASS OF 1986!

President - Kim Fitchen, Vice Presidents - Joe Greunder, Scott Morehouse, Michelle Ohye, Nancy Ryle, Secretary - Dean Dyer, Treasurer - Michelle Evans

(sen-yor-i-tus)

noun : 1. The state of mind of seniors beginning with the graduation of the previous year's seniors (although for some it begins in the freshman year) and consists of the constant dream of Grad Nite, failure to get up in time for first period (and sometimes not until lunch), neglect to attend school on days beginning with M, T, or F, forgetting to come back to school after lunch, calling in for themselves on sunny days, taking 17 to the doctor's, decorating underclass cars parked in the senior section, and tweet kazoos.

Laurel Speaks For The Students

Did you ever get really angry about something in school? Or did anything ever REALLY concern you to the point where you HAD to take action, but couldn't because you never had a voice in the blaring, noisy world of education politics? Well, this school year, we finally got our own voice: Laurel Lee, this year's liaison between the school board and the Interdistrict Council (IDC). IDC is composed of student leaders, one from each school. In addition, there is one person who represents IDC at school board meetings; Laurel is the first representative from Lynbrook to fill this position. Her voice at board meetings is the voices of the collective students throughout the district. All congratulations to Laurel on attaining such a prestigious and essential position. Nice going, Laurel!!

SAFE-RIDES

Friends Helping Friends

In an effort to reduce the number of alcohol related auto accidents, Lynbrook students have become involved in a chapter of Safe Rides. The Safe Rides program is for students to help students by offering free and confidential rides home. It began in the April of 1985 with the combined efforts of Lynbrook and Monta Vista. By operating on Friday and Saturday, it attempts to lower the number of intoxicated teens on the road.

The people who participate in the program volunteer over twenty hours of training time (which includes CPR, dispatching, and defensive driving) and a minimum of one night a month. One driver involved commented, "Its fun working with and helping students from other schools. Its a community effort."

Waiting Game

When you got into your junior year, did you EVER say, "Well, I'd better start getting ready for my senior year?" Nope. But us seniors, if we plan to haul off to the collegiate jungle to study for some coveted degree, must plan for next year. (It sounds all so disgraceful to plan to be a frosh again!) The school year begins with a bang, and by the time you're done rapping about summer and trying to fit back into school life, those college applications are due. Frantically, almost as if it were finals or something, you're up at midnight typing your 300-word self-analysis and chowing down on a sandwich. Ironically, finals come two weeks later! At the same time, scholarship applications are due! Sleep (and postage stamps) are lost as you finish those tasks. Your energy is depleted. You have become a lifeless hull. And then they make you wait . . . After all that hard work. Eventually, a few months down the road of senioritis, the colleges write back to say "hi" and maybe "we regret to inform . . ." Maybe some will say "thanks for the wait. Welcome to Stanford" or "Congratulations on joining the CSU Long Beach family." And maybe another might begin "DeAnza Courses, Fall 86." Whatever the case may be, there's one (or 2, or 3, or 29) out there to get an education at. And they're waiting for YOU!

WHAT CAN WE SAY? So maybe we didn't have the winningest football team in the league ... but we did have a good time, though. We didn't let a few losses affect us too much (or maybe that was our problem!). The Dave Kim Award, lighting Scott on fire, dogpiling Okelberry, and making fun of Chris Hart's pictures were signs of the less-than-serious side we had. And yes, we had a serious side, too!

We worked hard! Getting yelled at by the coaches, realizing our playing quality was not always all that great (and paying the price for it), and realizing that we weren't the champions we thought we were played a large role in our "sobering-up". All of those down-ups, windsprints, sled-runs, and motivations (given to us so generously by the coach) toughened us up both physically and mentally. After the Homestead game (our first win) we were all in better spirits. Maybe, we thought, the rough pre-season prepared us for the league season. After all, look at how well we performed against Seaside! And what about that exciting Homecoming game? The big problem was playing consistently. Oh well ... When we were hot, we were HOT!

Kick Off With JV

Football

"How fair is youth that flies so fast-Then be happy you who may; What's to come is still unsure," reads the sign in the JV football team room. What was to come in the season was definitely unsure for the team, which finished with a 4-6 record. The team was constantly striving for excellence and unity (usually through hard work), although it was in the constant dark shadows of the varsity team. Nevertheless, the Vikings had some valuable contributors to the group's effort, like Travis Boeck (top scorer on the team) and tough Frank Rowan, the brute of the bunch. The team focused all of its energy into each game it played throughout the rough season. Whatever the playback, wheather the satisfaction of beating Fremont or the agony of facing the force from Seaside, the team stood its ground all the way and felt good about its achievements. Be happy; for the future is so unsure . . .

The varsity season began with the old saying, I've never been so happy in my whole life!" which pulled us through the good times and the bad. Maybe we could have all made it to practice, (Mary, you have to be where, when?) "Don't be satisfied! Give 101% . . . ANTICIPATE! You can do it . . ." After making it through practices, we finally had to face some tough games. Two important games in one week (Toga and M.V.) how much more could they ask of us? Nevertheless, we made it through! Now, Laura are you sure you don't want another chest protector? Three — are better than two!

ATTACK OF THE BANANAS! DUCK! Well, girls, remember-stop the wack-attack and PUSH!!!

The JV team was off to a great start with their record of seven wins. Although we have lost one game at this point, if you JV's would tie your shoes together maybe you'd win more games. Our team learned this year: 1. No lazy reverse sticks. 2. DO NOT be afraid to put your sticks down, you might hit something. 3. Always remember to pass . . . pass . . . PASS!! Well, JV's, you worked hard, you had fun and you made a great team—love your mother 63, 64, ready, GO (sigh!)

There's nothing quite like running ten (count 'em) green fields (800 yards), each under 2:30. That really makes everybody's day. The hills, as usual, were steep, but they seemed infinitely long when the team was led astray. The competition was tough, but we were tougher. Cramps, shin splints, torn muscles, and unnumerable other ailments took a heavy toll, but those who remained were the cream of the crop. At the league meet, the "others" took first in the open meet. The boys' and girls' Varsity teams continued on to bigger and better things (CCS and Region II Meets). Of course, the best part was waiting on the starting line for that gun to go off ... Runner-up was that bridge at Stanford ... two hundred miles never seemed so short!

Volleyball

Well, Lady Vikes, this was not our best season, but we did have a lot of fun and that is what really counts!! Hey varsity-congrats on winning your first and last games. Even though the talent was there, we just could not pull through to clinch a winning record. Two things Vikes: first, the effort was great and the spirit of competition was definitely alive! Second, do not even consider giving up because next year's competition had better watch out!

Excellent job JV's on upsetting Homestead and knocking them out of first place. And JV's, remember to keep the ball out of the varsity's courts, you'll be there soon enough. Almost beat Saratoga, we'll do it next year, right?!?

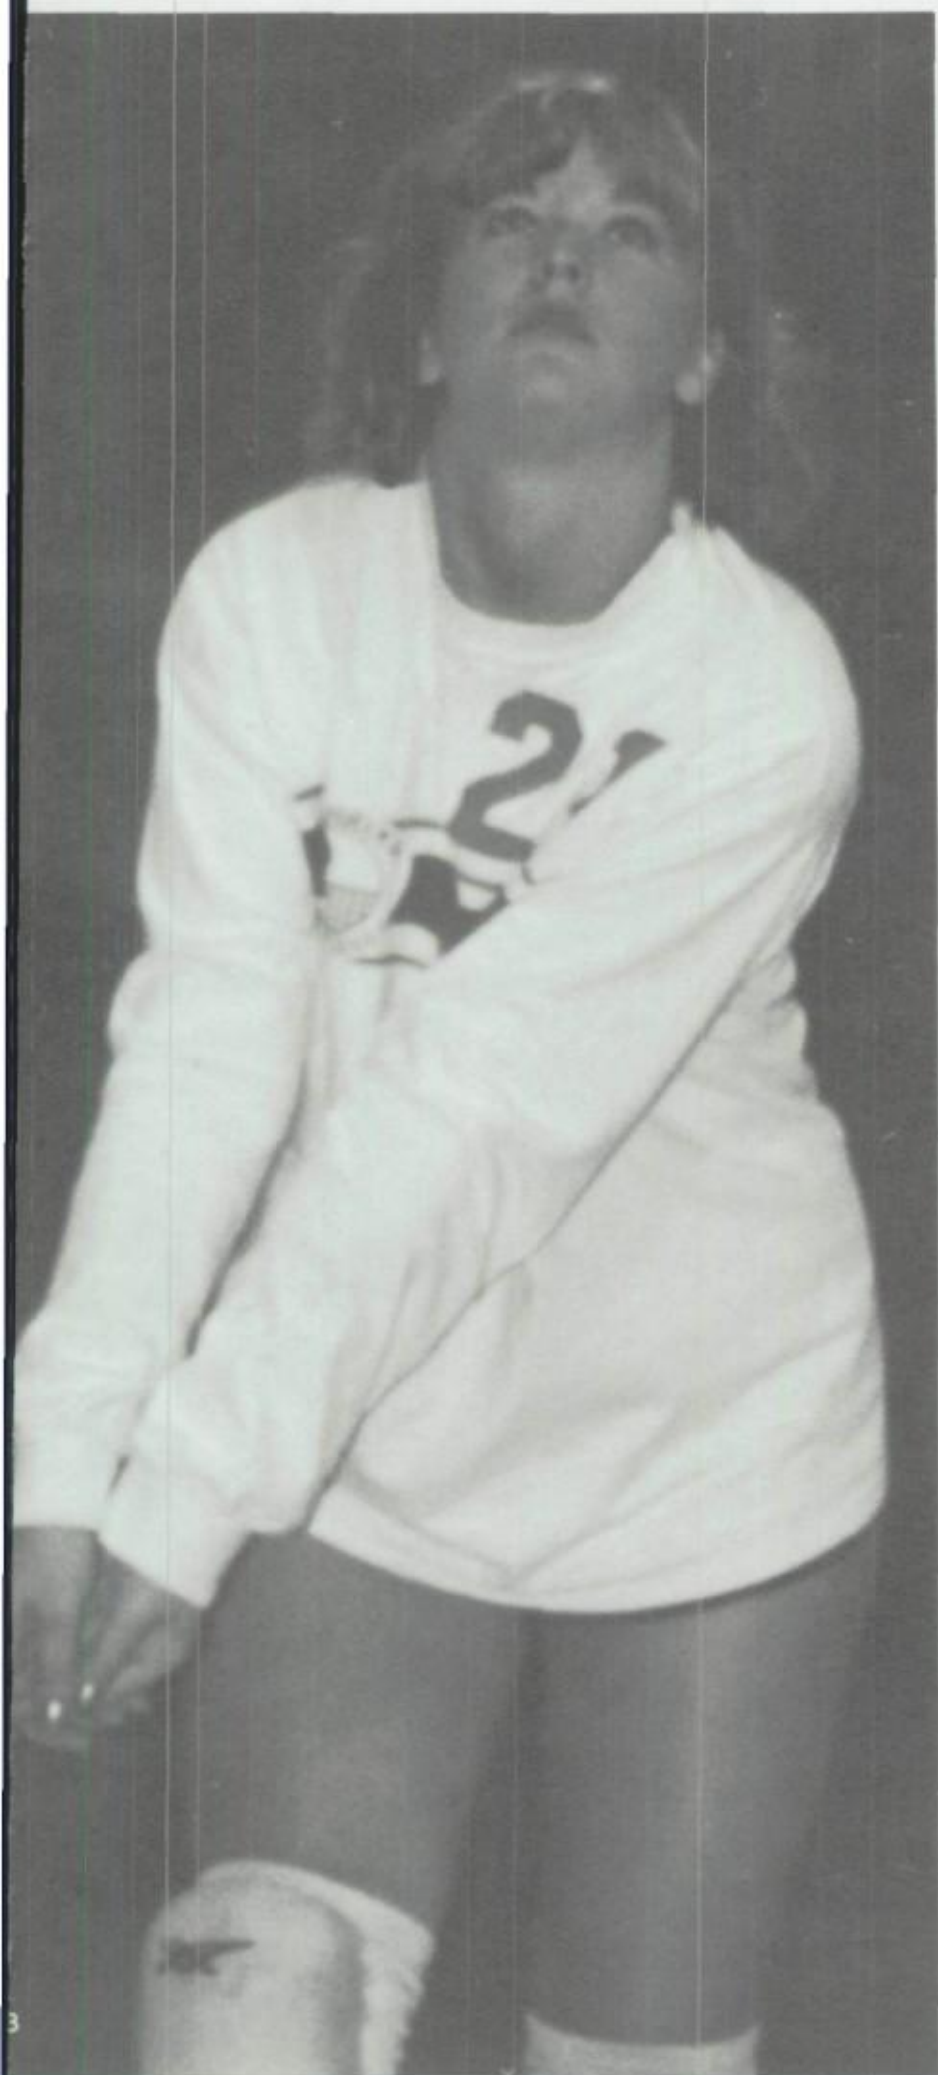

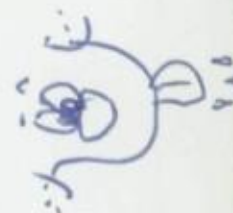

For those not returning to the team, you gave it your all and that is what matters. For the up and coming varsity players, don't give in yet, you have a few years to win those games.

A Wild Pool of Talent

Fun and hard work! The two main ingredients that were combined to make this year's team successful. Going into their last few games the Vikes were ranked third in C.C.S. In the California State Championships, Lynbrook finished in sixth place. To achieve this success, the guys practiced close to five hours a day, and were subject to unorthodox but rigorous training techniques, such as treading water with filled, one-gallon water jugs on their heads and running a mile for time at 6:30 in the morning.

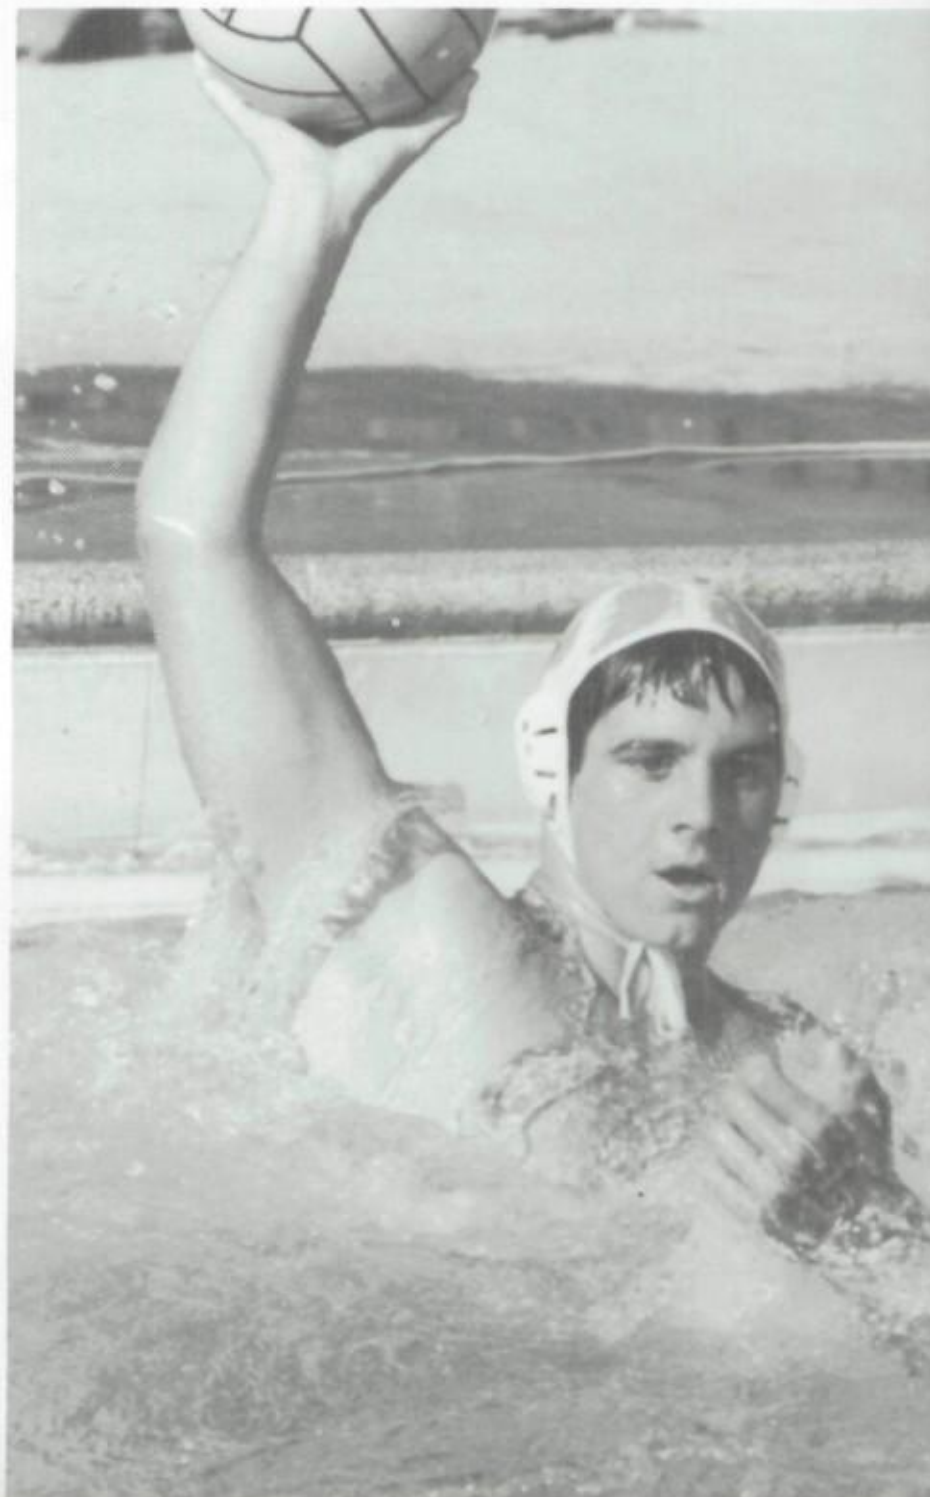

1. Hurry up and shoot it, Bob. 2. Rod Rutledge victimizes another player. 3. Smilin' Mike Sanford casually starts another Lynbrook counter-attack.

Contrary to popular belief, these Vikes enjoyed having fun. Bob Kleis enjoyed playing with his whale, Humphrey. Scott Duffy just could not stop talking about his Betty's. Water jugs seemed irresistible to Paul Fischer. He just had to pick them up and throw them over the fence or throw them on the ground. Many a bottle was destroyed by Paul. The 1985-86 Lynbrook Water Polo Team was full of characters. Horseplay ruled the deck, but once everybody was wet, it was time for work. Good job guys!

Without a coach, the 1985 Girls Swimming season started off slowly. But, we were very lucky to get Coach Cynthia Valacer. The "sexy swimmin' women," woke up every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday to be in the freezing cold water by 5:30 AM. Everyday after school, except for Thursdays when we have meets, we practiced in groups.

In morning practice, Don requested us to "work on your hips, not your lips, ladies." But, that did not apply at lunch or after practice as many of us were overcome with "The Munchies!"

In the beginning, several of us, (daily discovering muscles that we never new existed) felt, and looked like we were on our way to an unsuccessful season. The team pulled together though, to end with a 4-2 record. J.V. finished 9th in DAL's and Varsity won a spectacular 4th place.

I remember the first time I saw you, I thought you were so beautiful and I still do. Know what I started saying "we're the sexy swimmin' women!" And no credit! Oh well! You're really special you know! I remember when I told you about Sue and I not getting along. You helped me realize that they chick and Sue are different and that's good not to be exactly alike. We got close but never as close as I would have liked. You're a mad swimmer and I hope that swimming season will again draw us close. I was turned this year about swimming but I won't be next year. You and Ron are so cute together, please to not for sex sake for your stay at least friends. Maybe we can't get together and have sex sometime. I am glad you came to California. Well never be as mad as you but maybe not get close. Close. Thanks for being here for me. All my love. Lets Party. Have Lots of Sex.

Many Happy

R eturns

The varsity girls' tennis team began early in their season's endeavors. The 11 Lady Vikes used their full force, with superb players like Cynthia Cook, Tracy Meyers, and Kristen Texeira, to assault the preseason, destroying teams like Cupertino and Homestead. Seemingly following in their footprints (and racquet-whacks) was the 10-member JV squad. Like their elders, they too whipped Homestead and (sad) Tino. However, Saratoga proved to be the toughest match for the team ... too tough, in fact. At any rate, both teams enjoyed their season. Hopefully, we'll see more advancement next year ... or, as Wendy Kumata puts it, "Many Happy Returns!"

Grappling Towards

Victory

How does Coach Talbot do it? Even after losing many fine wrestlers last year to graduation, Talbot has managed to whip these guys into league contenders. The wrestlers will tell you that the secret probably lies within the 2½ mile runs, the intensity tapes, the thousands of drills they endure, or the intensity Talbot instills in his team.

Why all the extra hard work? With all the talent on this team, it would be a waste. Talented wrestlers like Eric Garlick, Amir Safarian, Greg Paulson, Steve "Swift Elk" Guerra, and Mark Valone have their eyes set on dethroning perennial league champ, Cupertino. As for Lynbrook's chances in C.C.S., Coach Talbot will tell anybody who asks that "... 4 or 5 Viking wrestlers have excellent chances of taking one of the top spots.

It's worth a Shot

Once again, the girls basketball teams fielded a superior effort and strived for personal and team bests. Although there were some struggles (like Homestead), some problems (rebounding and blocking) and some mistakes (coaches' T's), the girls brought forth their BRUTAL HARSH HARSH INTENSE forces to stomp on (or stamp out) even the best. After all, how could they go wrong with such a balanced equal team? Everyone contributed their best especially the constant, unchanging 5 starters. Nevertheless, the girls kicked it all out (with tough "assistance" from the coach) ... Just like in the team pictures, eh eh girls?

Spectators of Lynbrook soccer might've wondered what happened to the famous "Hard Wood Defense" or that probing and penetrating offense of last year. But everyone can rest assured because Lynbrook soccer has always been good. This year was no exception. The front line might have looked impotent at the beginning of the season but these guys had not even greased up the machine yet. As the season passed Lynbrook soon found themselves in the driving position of the league again. With returning starters Erik "Hooch" Jones, Pat "Beat Street" Kelley, Don McIntosh, and Shawn "Bud" Blakeman, and the rest of this talented squad, Lynbrook will be bucking for another league championship and appearance in C.C.S.

Since I noticed that Laura signed on her sport, I'll sign on mine!! Go Varsity!!! Anyway, Biology just would not have been the same without your bubbly personality and loud laugh! I hope that you never lose your beautiful smile because it brightens people → especially me!!

I'm glad that you moved out here and ended up in My Biology class!! Otherwise, we would never have become such pals!

Well girls, the long awaited soccer season finally arrived. Yes, we finally made it through those long weeks of tryouts and cuts. So Varsity, we did not start out too swift, but we are sure making up for it now. We are presently ranked 10th and as you know there is no place to go but up. Hopefully with strong will, great determination, and a little luck, we'll capture the league championship and take a shot at C.C.S. Go get em Vikes!

Hey JV's, good news! We presently hold a record of 2-1-1. You must admit we started out good considering we never knew who would be playing goalie until the game started (poor Laura). We definitely have the talent and drive to change our current standings. Good luck Vikes! Wooh Wooh ... Uh Uh Oh ...

Hopefully, next year we'll have more classes. Are you taking Physiology or Chemistry? I'm taking Physiology, so we'll see! I'm really glad I got to know you because I can tell that we have a special friendship! (Go Varsity Vikes!!) Take care this summer and don't forget your biology because it will come in handy. You'll see! Call me and have a super summer!

Well Birdie lovers, it was time once again to get out the old rackets and get ready for badminton season. This sport appears to be increasing in popularity. This would have been apparent if you were one of the millions who tried out. When the rounds of games were finally played out and the teams finally selected, the season began. Both teams started strong under the leadership of coach Dave Pugh. Although the season is presently just underway, we look forward to a fun and successful season. Go get em Vikes!

"Yeah, we're young, but definitely not inexperienced."

The Unknown Viking.

Mind

Twin starting efforts were shared by the Varsity and the JV Baseball teams this year, as both initially showed their skill in their sport. Varsity seemed to be a quite young team, with more juniors than seniors, and with a few excelling sophomores. Pitcher Scott Morehouse and infielder Greg Gibbs led the fighting and furious pack on its course for DAL placing. Two tough recruits from Bellarmine, Todd Branon and Dave Barrera, along with the rest of the team, packed a fantastic team with a promising future. Since HEN Varsity was "the young team," JV followed suit by being an "old team," composed of an almost equal number of juniors, sophs, and frosh, a formation very unusual to JV. The team kicked off to a reasonably good season start, although fluctuating between outrageously outstanding and outrageously average play. Surprisingly, a boon to the fast JV team were the five frosh on the team, all great players alike.

Splash

Early in the morning, a huge, collective splash breaks the silence and serenity of the man-made lake's icy water. Looking closely, one can see a school of flopping, tan-skinned, green-haired creatures recklessly splashing and thrashing across the lake. And then it finally dawns on us: it's our boys' swimming and diving teams practicing and preparing for another conquest in aquatical competition. As with any other team, the swimmers took a while to get everything organized, but everything began to come together sooner or later. And emerging in the highlights were Lynbrook's best, and possibly even the league's best ... maybe even CCS' best! Tough, dedicated, and fast swimmers, such as Paul Fischer, and strong, talented divers, like CCS-bound Jeff Ritchey, composed and propelled the team (Yes, even the soph squids) left the competition (especially Fremont) at the bottom of the pool. Finally, all the hard work, team unity, and personal experience began to pay off as LHS powered into its typically great performance breaking records and breaking brakes in its drive for the top.

The Track

E xpress

With few people showing up in the beginning, the Track Team got off to a slow start. For a while, it seemed as if there wasn't going to be a team, only individual competition going for a CCS or DAL record or ranking. Then everybody started showing up, bringing the team up to its bleacher-packing status once again. Once the team finally materialized, the true talent started to peak, especially in fantastic hurdler Peter Kolotorus, who looks as if CCS is just beyond that last hurdle. And in super-sprinter John Dodson's endless accomplishments. And in runner Carol Stephenson. And in triple-varsity, CCS-bound sprinter Lesa Landry. As a matter of fact, it was the whole team, from the speedy runners to the striving discuss throwers. Talent was the factor for team unity this year even though team organization took awhile. But as usual, things turned around in the positive direction in the end.

Water Polo

Lynbrook's Water Polo team destroyed many league teams this year. In the league finals, we destroyed teams by scores of 17-3 and 18-4. After earning a DAL championship, Lynbrook advanced into CCS, receiving a bye in the first round. Lynbrook then beat Live Oak 18-9 and Palo Alto 9-8 in succession to advance themselves into the finals. They lost 7-4 against Belarmine. For their success in league, Lynbrook was said to have been the most dominant team ever, and many players were nominated to All-League, All-NorCal, and All-American teams.

Wrestling

If there was a best attitude award for teams it would have to go to this group of wrestlers. They suffered through many injuries and ills and they still remained competitive. Lynbrook placed a disappointing 4th in the league, but many individuals stood out. Steve Guerra and Amir Saffarian placed first in their divisions. Eric Garlick and Mark Valone took seconds, Steve Ledin and Brian Hotta placed third, and Devin Mathios and Keith McDonald took fourths. All the wrestlers listed above went to CCS. However, only Steve Guerra placed. He took a fifth place.

Girls' Soccer

After claiming a first place finish in DAL's this year, Lynbrook was ranked to finish very high in CCS coming into the tourney. But after getting a bye in the first round, Lynbrook was outscored by Prospect, 4-3.

Boys' Soccer

Towards the end of season Lynbrook finally started playing the way they should have. In a very competitive league bracket, we managed to get share of the championship for the second year in a row, and a berth in CCS for the third year in a row. Lynbrook battled their way past Oak Grove 2-0, and then lost to Francis, 3-2.

Teams

Spring Sports

Any members from track, swimming, tennis, and badminton have chances to go to CCS. In track, one member stands out. Pete Kolotouros is definite favorite in the hurdles. In swimming, Lynbrook should fare very well. Paul Fischer, Mike Murphy, Denny Kreig, Mark Kruthers, and Dean

Dyer should make it to CCS. Paul Fischer should do very well in the backstroke. The whole tennis team has a strong possibility to go to CCS. Lynn Stepovich, Neils Lofgren, and Don McIntosh have great chances to go. Spring sports should have many Lynbrook athletes going to CCS.

Girls' Basketball

The girls' basketball team made it to post-season play after a one year absence. Coming into the league championship, Lynbrook was ranked high in CCS but third in the tough DAL's, behind Monta Vista and Homestead. But to everybody's surprise, except the girls, they beat Monta Vista to claim second place in leagues and a berth in CCS. However, in the first round, they lost to Silver Creek, 45-39. Special congrats to Michelle Evans, Amy Pletschette, and Stacey Griffith for being named All-League.

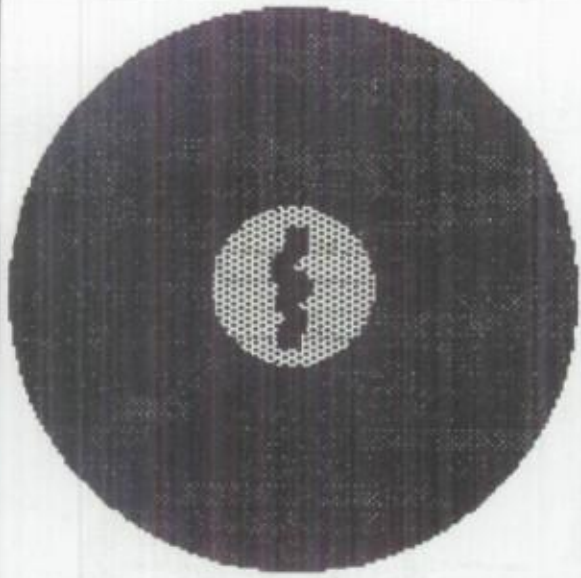

Field Hockey

When people talk of Lynbrook's Field Hockey team, we probably ought to start talking dynasty. Once again our field hockey team took the CCS title. That makes 4 titles in 5 years. That's pretty incredible! After taking the league championship, again, the girls moved into CCS receiving a bye in Round 1. They then beat Willow Glen, 2-0, in the second round. In the final match, Lynbrook took Gilroy to the cleaners, 3-0. Keep those championships coming gals!

JUNIOORS

One More Year ...

Everybody seems to want their high school years to boil down and finally end. Seniors, knowing it's their last year, don't have to wish anymore. But what about us Juniors, the second in line to Lynbrook? Do we really want to leave that bad? Look at everything your 12 years of school have given ... priceless education, loads of friends, experiences, opinions, viewpoints, and style ... the substances of our existances ... And we want to leave it all behind? There's one more year ahead of us: the last of 13 years of making ourselves into who, what, and why we are. There are a lot more relationships to bond together, more fun to have, and more things to do. It'll be our last, best chance to create our futures ... in one more year.

Going around in circle

"I was driving over 80 m.p.h. legally before I got my permit." Speed is nothing new to L.H.S. junior Michelle Hahn, whose favorite pastime is quite unusual. Meeshie, as her friends call her, has been racing Quarter Midget race cars since 1982. Her car is a 1984 Stanley offset Quarter Midget, and she races on 1/20 mile dirt, asphalt, or indoor tracks reaching up to speeds of 80 m.p.h. Meeshie races in the two fastest and most experienced classes of her league, Junior 1/2-4 cycle and Heavy AA. Having raced at various tracks around the state, she competed at the 1985 Grand National Championships in Tacoma, Washington. After flipping in practice, she set the fourth fast-time out of seventeen drivers in a very close race. At Winter Finals she came in second behind the Heavy AA Grand Nationals Champ, then she beat the Junior 1/2-4 cycle Grand Nationals Champ in the half race. In the future, Michelle looks forward to racing Micro-Midgets, Midgets, or Sprint cars.

How to be a Junior

- Drive the family boat to school
- Walk into class and "accidentally" drop your new car keys
- Attempt to beat the seniors at things
- Collect senior acquaintances
- Call yourself an upperclassmen
- Steal napkin dispensers during daily lunchtime trips
- Hang out at the 7-11 with the sophomores
- Get a job to pay for car insurance

Jen - wasn't Biology just so fun? Just picking on Kerry right. You made it fun with the way you tell stories and gossip. Just because of that I hope we have some classes together next year. Have a great summer. Stay out of trouble, and maybe I will see you at Great America!

Getting out awake

U.S. History must be the most exciting class at times. You're not too sure if you can get into this movie about Eli Whitney, though. Sleeping, as an alternative, is overused and out of the question. Mr. Thornburg would get pretty irate if he finds out that you've snoozed through the flick. Hmm ... too dark to write a note or doodle ... Where's the hall pass? You grab it and sneak outside under the pretense of visiting the restroom. This trip (excuse!) lasts no more than a few seconds as you trot over to see if you know anybody in the library. Nope. Nobody in there except a librarian. Ew ... someone splatted an orange against the trophy case. Gross! Well, nothing's going on in the rally court, either. You sneak over to the locker room. Their Coke machine's off. Check the hair in the mirrors. Looks like a rat's nest ... OK, fixed now. Nah, don't have to use the restroom. Peek into the exercise room and see if your friends are in there. Nope. Not there, either. Head back to room 50. Put the pass back and sit down. Check the clock. Only burned up six minutes! Looks like it'll be a long period of pure Eli Whitney. Zzzzzz

Splashin' '88

Splash! Whoosh! Sun and fun are the first impressions received from the sight of the thrilling Monta Vista Crusher, as the Sophs put on Beach Boardwalk '88! But there is much more to the class of '88 than being fun loving beach bums! Getting up early to scribble posters and wracking their tired brains for unusual announcements were just a few of the tasks of the ever-diligent class officers!

How to be a Soph

Put stupid answers on the Stanford tests.
Hang at the 7-11 with the juniors.
Be so proud of not being a freshmen that you make fool of yourself.
Brag about how well you already know how to drive.
Throw M&M's at the nerds.
Make up excuses to tell Mr. Wilkinson for not having speech ready.
Go on a date and have mom drive.
Find out about hormones.
Flunk permit test.
Flirt with Mr. Larsh.

at Lynbrook when ...*

the Wilson smiles at you.
the band director is almost your age.
you eat chocolate cake while talking to Mr. Sluga.
an ex-drill sergeant is your P.E. substitute.
the cafeteria food jumps into your mouth.
calculus is your easiest class.
Mr. Thornburg calls you a "twit."
you have to drop Reading Lab.
Jimbo locks the door on you.
you drive Daddy's car to school and the cops go around and give tickets to cars without stickers.
the Drivers' Ed. class hits the road.
you don't know how to spell ... ~~Valhalla~~, ~~Valahala~~, ~~Valhala~~... oh, forget it!!!
Mr. Reilly looks glad to see you.
you're 20 inutes late to Mr. Stewart's class.
Mr. Pate calls your mother.
you park your stretch Lincoln across two handicapped spaces and get two parking tickets.
you look forward to Mr. Sluga's Verbal Aptitude tests.
you understand Mr. Yerly you fall asleep during a Super Quiz you start to enjoy cafeteria food.

This is it?

So this is Lynbrook High? It's been a tough year to struggle through the bottom of the underclasses. After all, freshmen life, at least in the beginning, was rather haunting. Who can forget that first day on campus (what's an advisory?) Where we could barely travel 20 feet without being prodded at by seniors? Back then, they were all bigger than us newcomers: they were all seniors to us. But then we discovered something ... very gradually. First at the dance, then at the game, then at the rally. No matter if they were in different grades, we were together. We were all Vikings ... here, convinced that Lynbrook was almost a second home to all of us. It's then that we finally began to fit in as a part of this school. The concept of a complete student body included us, too. Where would Lynbrook be without the frosh? After we finally became comfortable with our peers, we were able to relax and quit worrying. Everything else began falling into place. And, by the end of that proverbially horrendous first year, we became equals ... Vikings. This is Lynbrook High.

Vike Pride '89

Introducing ... the newest addition to Lynbrook High; The class of 1989. The freshmen class has high hopes in making their high school years full of accomplishments and VIKE pride. Off to a flying start, the Class of 1989 received the highest points for Homecoming of the past freshmen classes. They plan to raise more money for upcoming activities by organizing car washes, carnation sales, and pizza nights. The freshmen, led by the class officers, are full of potential, and we welcome them to Lynbrook High.

How to be a Fresh

Do Whatever upperclassmen tell you to do.

Wonder What McDonald's is like.

Wear a swatch.

Dye your bangs blonde.

Talk about parties-but never go to any.

Your heighth ranges from 4 to 5 feet.

Weigh less than 100 pounds.

Run to your class so you can be the first one there.

Look for the "freshman lawn."

Think you are popular if you know a few seniors.

Have a "bob" hairstyle.

Go to your locker at brunch - and stay there

There are not directions on being a freshmen-you just are one.

You know it's summer when ...

People have "a doctor's appointment" and come back the next day with a sunburn Beach sand starts piling up on the classroom floor
Mrs. Cartee doesn't wear her fur coat/
Bottles and cans don't make your hand cold at night
Freshmen ask if it's o.k. to wear shorts to school
The population of your classes is quickly declining
Otis Halliday stops wearing his thermals
It's hot
The school lingers with the aroma of suntan lotion
The school heater finally works
The amount of skin showing is inversely proportional to the amount of completed homework
The only person at school is Mr. Sedgley
The convertible tops go down
It gets dark at 9:00 pm (instead of 5:00 pm)
Highway 17 to Santa Cruz is jammed
The senior parking lot is empty
The juniors start acting like seniors

What do you enjoy most about teaching?

"No doubt, the students-especially when they have the 'Hey, I've got the right answer!' look on their faces after working a problem." -Rienhart

"The students! We are blessed with students who not only have high academic abilities, but they have a sense of humor & wonderful personalities." -Mansfield

"The look of relief (Spelled r-o-l-a-i-d-s?) on a student's face as he brings his final 'drop slip' from Chemistry, just kidding! It's also nice when a somewhat trying student finally FINDS MOLES! I just wish students wouldn't futz with their protons and dinkle with their subscripts in public." -The Wilson

GOVERNING BODIES

This year marks a sort of new beginning for Lynbrook's student government. Before the year began, President Tom Alloggiamento pushed for a major overhaul of Lynbrook's commissioner programs. Student/teacher relations, Super School fundraising, avoiding a possible Lynbrook closure, and reviving school pride were major areas of concern. It can be fairly said that the students involved in ASB this year worked harder than many have have in the past. Being a commissioner became a fulltime job. Legislative Council was a place for commissioner reports rather than a time to miss class. Countless hours were spent in conference with Gail Jensen, or waking up for the extra-special seven o'clock meetings. For those people in Executive and Legislative Councils, good job!

1. Student Representative to the Board of Education, Laurel Lee makes a motion. 2. ASB officers John Rhee, Scott Huber, Tania Rands, and Tom Alloggiamento really pulled together for a great year. 3. Finally, there are tables and chairs in the exec. room. 4. Mrs. Jensen glances over a love questionnaire as elections commissioner, Matt Small makes a motion.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Once again, Lynbrook was more than fortunate to welcome foreign exchange students for the school year. The six Vikes in a foreign land, Avraam, Christine, Michaela, Neils, John-Philippe, and Sachiko, were brought to our country and school through a program called YFU, or Youth for Understanding. Life, as usual, is very different between their countries and the United States. For instance, prices, in general, are much lower in Germany. In Brazil, skipping classes is much easier. Greek students are much more involved in Politics. Each student stays with a host-family for their year at Lynbrook, and they all seem to fit in precisely with the student life at Lynbrook.

The Spirit Of LHS!

"LHS, yes! The mighty red and blue wave!" And what a mighty, spirited wave it was ... a double dozen of the best spiritleaders in the district ... or the State for that matter! Our faithful cheerers pulled in three Superior trophies over the summer at USA camp, and plan to continue their triumphs at two more competitions during the year. This year, the number of squads has changed. Although the number of different cheer-teams is less and there's not as many girls, their spontaneity, spirit, pride, and power are considerably better than those in years past. Our cheer, letter, and song girls did their personal best to lead our school higher and higher.

1. As Meagan demonstrates even cheerleaders need a break. 2. Letter-girls old and new together again. 3. Don't worry Stacey, everyone forgets once in awhile. 4. Donna shivering at one of the nighttime football games. 5. "United we stand!"

Lettergirls: A. Fraire, E. Freed, M. Lewis, K. Matsumoto, B. Power, S. Silva

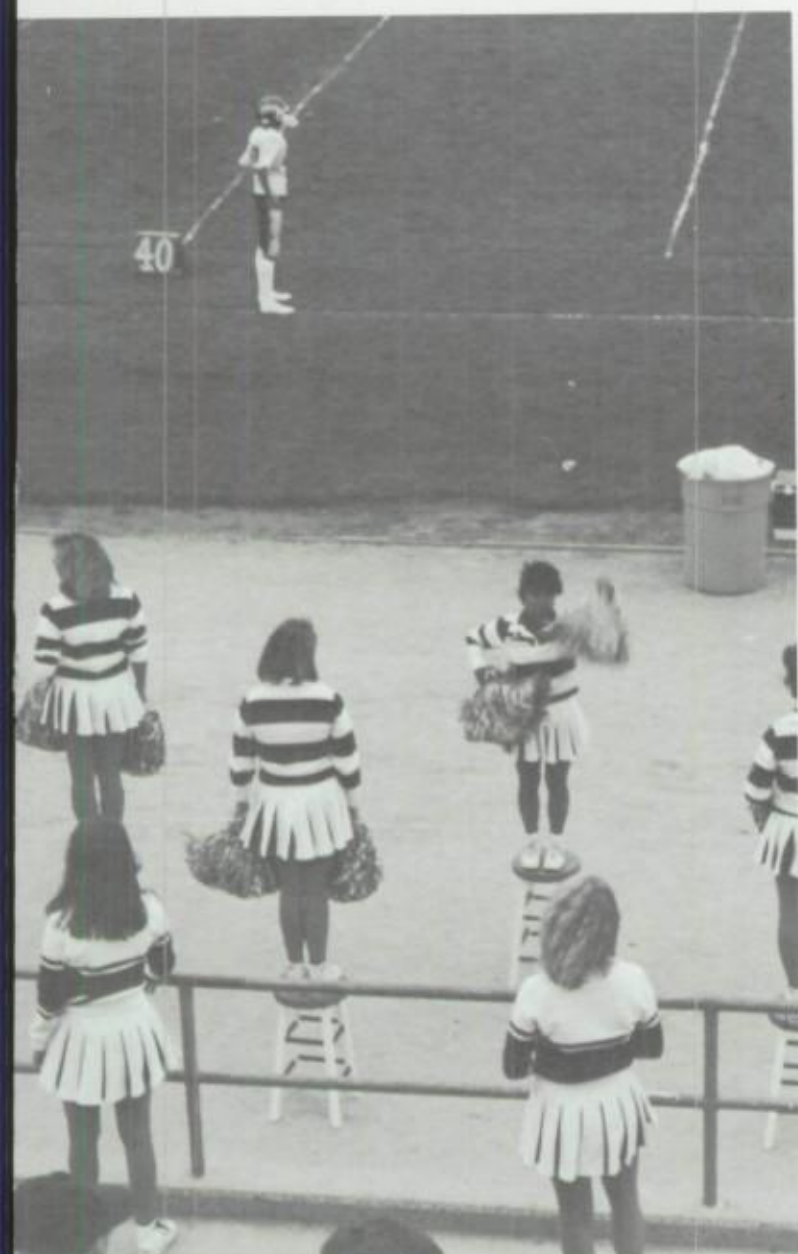

Songgirls: J. Antonelli, D. Hernando, S. McGhee, S. O'Connell, K. Parker, L. Stanford.

1. Trish shows her spirit with a smile. 2. Erin watches the bleachers below for a signal of the next cheer. 3. The songgirls strut their stuff out on the track. 4. Lynn, Colleen, and Laura, take time out for a pose. 5. Diane and Laura say "cheese!"

THE EPIC

Lynbrook High School

Nov. 22, 1985 • Vol. 21, No. 3

When the Epic Staff was formed, we all realized that confusion was in order. Staff positions, members, and class periods were constantly shifting. If the entire staff ever met for one period and didn't sign out to sell ads' or steal ice from H.J.'s, we were either getting chewed out or furiously doing our math homework. Mandy was busy flinging toast. Dan was cowering from the wrath of Jack. Writing seemed the thing to avoid. As a result, the majority of work was laboriously cranked out at night or on weekends. We can't forget those fun hours with our favorite Jll items: green meanies, dried Chartpak, pizza & coke, the sick composer, and the dreaded WAXER! And if we didn't clean it all up, we'd get the gift of Mom's fury: staff detention. In those situations, our motto was so true: OK, PANIC!!

United We Stood (eventually!)

The year started a little slowly as the editors struggled to teach an almost all new staff the basics of "yearbooking" without becoming dictators. Questions such as "Do we have to design layouts in columns?" and "What is a folio again?" rang out in room 17. But we managed to work through the type-fitting (Paige always carries around her electric typewriter, right Lori!) and special instructions in order to make our first deadline on time (with a little assistance from Federal Express and One-Hour Processing).

In preparation for the second deadline the questions changed to "How many columns are in the sports section?", "Where's the typehook and cropper?", and "Debbie how did you get all that work done if you didn't take the supplies out of the room?" Eventually we began to get the hang of it all!

The easier the work became the tendency to procrastinate intensified. "Turn down the stereo and quiet down, this is a classroom you know!" "Mark, get off the computer and listen to Vivian!" "Please stop writing weird words on the board Mr. Brazeau."

In this book we have shown what can be accomplished with some effort and cooperation even though we started out with NO EXPERIENCE.

YRIES

The Valkyries had a fantastic year. Starting in May with endless hours of practice, the team was never lacking in enthusiasm (plus attempts of humor by some.). The tremendous talents of the team were revealed at summer camp, numerous football games, band competitions, and competition season. Both teams went to Los Angeles in February and to the California State Competition where teams from all over where awed by their performances.

The most memorable highlights for some were touching Huey Lewis' hair and spending the night at the Disneyland Hotel. All of these hours spent moving "fast forward" were well rewarded. Goodbye and Good Luck to the fifteen 1986 Valkyrie seniors:

Marching To The Top

Once again, the Lynbrook Marching Band excelled in the promotion of Viking spirit through music. Beginning practice for its season in August, the band worked at refining its skills for up to ten hours a week. Their determination, hard work, and talent allowed them to place second in parade and third in field show competitions at the annual Tournament of Bands. Six days later, the LMB traveled to Del Oro to compete, placing first in parade and showing their number one woodwind section. Back at school, nobody could forget their great performances at football games and most of all, at the Homecoming game. Of course, a lot of the band's success was attributed to, Rod Pauley, alias Beaker.

Concerts and ... More Concerts

The Lynbrook Concert band once again got off to a rolling start. With the new band director, Mr. Teter, the concert band continued their success throughout the 1985-86 school year. Outstanding performances included the Christmas, Pops, and Spring Concerts. On top of this, the band members anxiously awaited April for their fun-filled trip to exotic Hawaii. Congratulations to all Concert Band members and a special thanks to Mr. Teter for a successful year.

Scales Above The Rest

How is it that one can derive pleasure from hearing a multitude of people warbling their vocal cords? The answer is easy; just lend an ear to the outstandingly melodic Lynbrook choirs. Combining dedication, enthusiasm, and a lot of practice, each of the seperate choirs worked together to perfect their talents for performances and, at the same time, create a memorable, valuable experience. Of course, none of the choirs would be where they were without the guidance and patience of Mrs. Vidt, who brought the vocalists into and through a wildly swinging (singing) year. Most memorable, however, were the Jazz Express shows at the Marriott Hotel, and a performance at a Boy Scout ceremony. Finally, at their holiday performance, the choirs packed 'em in and picked up the beat ... letting all the rest of the Vikes know how great our vocalists are. Congrats on a great year!!

CSF

California Scholarship Federation members include only those students with approximately a 3.5 grade point average. Any senior that qualified 5 semesters (1 in senior year) receives a chord at graduation. This club is organized by The Wilson.

French Honor Society

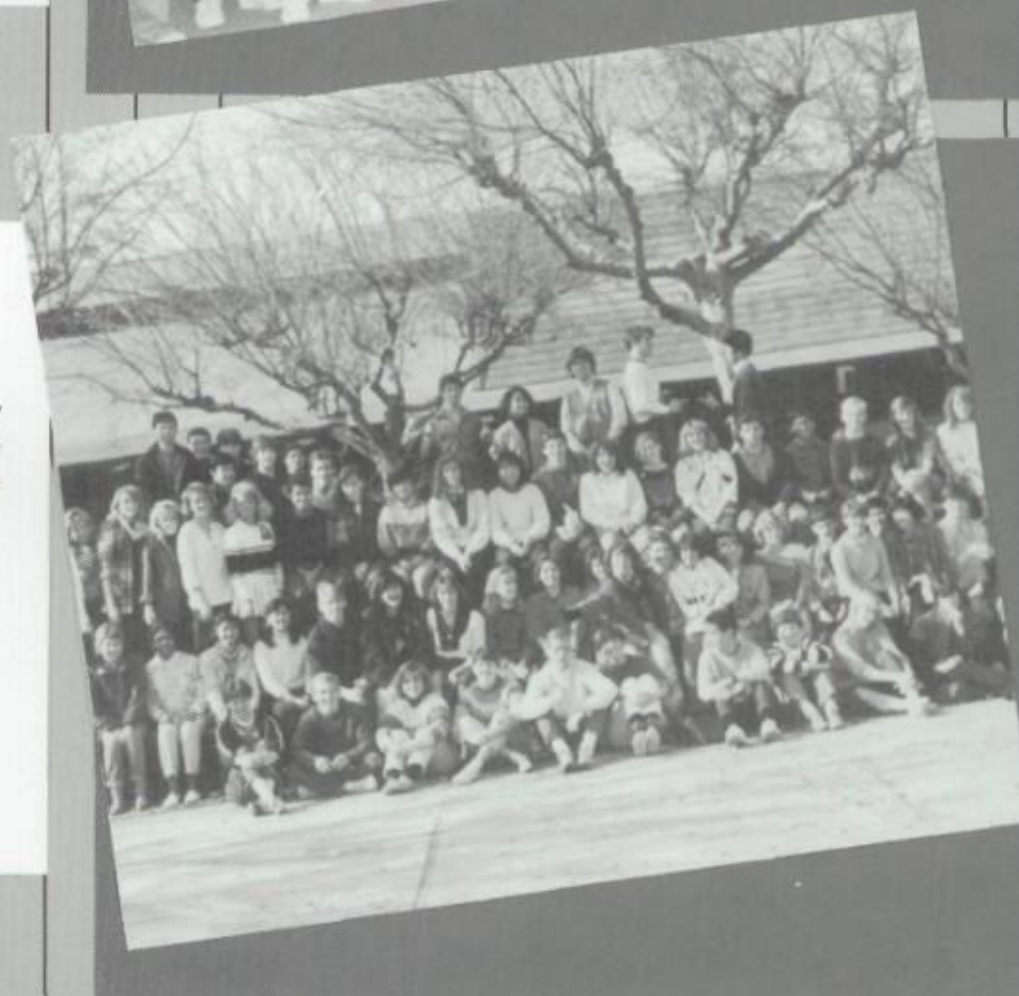

Advised by Mdme. Lallemande the French Honor Society is for exceptional french students who've had at least three years of the language.

*Look at that funny
looking cutie pie.
En l'love him so much.*

NHS

Lynbrook's chapter of National Honor Society consists of fifty seniors and twenty-five juniors. The faculty has chosen these students on the basis of community service, school participation and scholarship.

Spanish Honor Society

Spanish Honor Society includes the students who choose the language by choice and not just for credits. They must be nominated by their spanish teachers to participate.

Key Club

Lynbrook's Key Club is the largest club at school and the largest club in Northern California. It is a service club, and has many projects each month.

Octagon Club

Advised by Mr. Wilkinson Octagon Club is also a service club. Helping the community is why student are interested in being an octagon member.

LSA

Lynbrook spirit association or "Pep Club" participation helps plan the rallies and the team parties for sports. They advertise with posters to keep the student body informed.

BRITISH AMERICAN

The British American Club gives students a taste of British culture. Miss Truesdell keeps the enthusiasm flowing with frequent "teas" and slideshows.

FBLA

Sidney Young is the president of Future Business Leaders of America. They attend a weekend conference in the fall and participate in business competitions throughout the year.

G.A.T.E.

The Gifted and Talented Club is for any student who wishes to get a little extra out of his or hers high school education. The club attends seminars and productions outside of school.

Asian American

You don't have to be asian to get involved in this club. The Asian American Club spends time learning experiencing asian culture.

French Club

Advised by Mdme. Barton French Club members get to experience french culture whether french speaking or not.

German Club

This year the German Club been very busy selling gummi bears and Toblerone chocolate so they donate part of what they earn to those that really need it. Of coarse, they do reward themselves with German dinners.

Speech Club

Speech Club is not necessarily only for those who like to argue, but for anyone interested in learning how to effectively take a stand on an issue and support it logically. Mrs. Keller is the advisor.

Quill & Scroll

The Quill and Scroll consists of students interested in writting. Most of the members have Mrs. Garcin for Journalism 1 or 2.

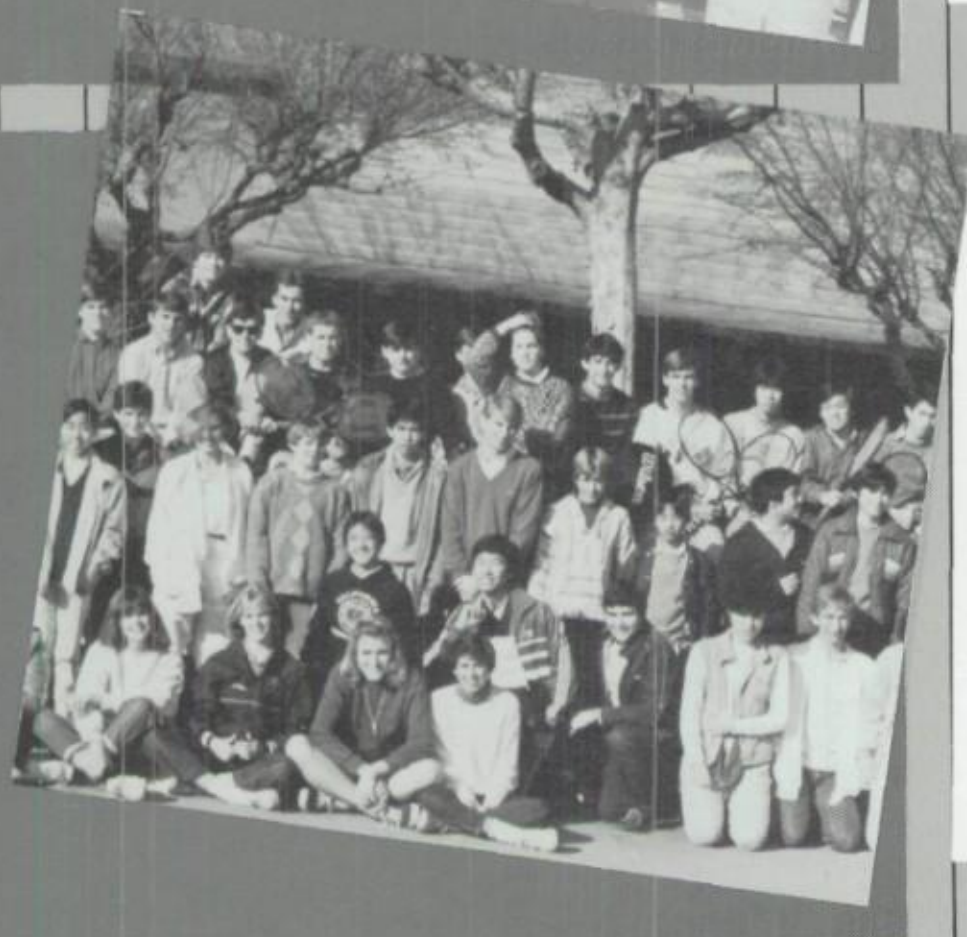

Spanish Club

Julie Jackson is the current president of Spanish Club. As a group they go out to dinner with their hard earned money. Speaking spanish though is not a prerequisite for membership.

CAL

The Creative Arts Lab is for the artist in the school. The club inspires spirit with its painted posters that show up on campus frequently. The Club was started by Chris Carvalo.

Tennis

The Tennis Club was started because of the number of people who tried out for tennis team was extraordinary. Through this club, anyone can participate in singles, doubles and mixed doubles tournaments informally.

Jen Place, what would you do if I got black paint and painted every page black. And then you can call this you're black book. Next year

Let's join the science fiction fantasy club. That would be really neat. You can take David Turner then I'll join french honor too and take Andrew. I don't like the cutest thing ever in I took friends. Don't tell anyone but I love them. It's on your page. It's the nicest guy ever plus he has these long eyelashes. The cutest thing ever. I'll be page 84, 134, and 141, and I'll be Gen, swimming was pretty fun. Cynthia was a rag next year

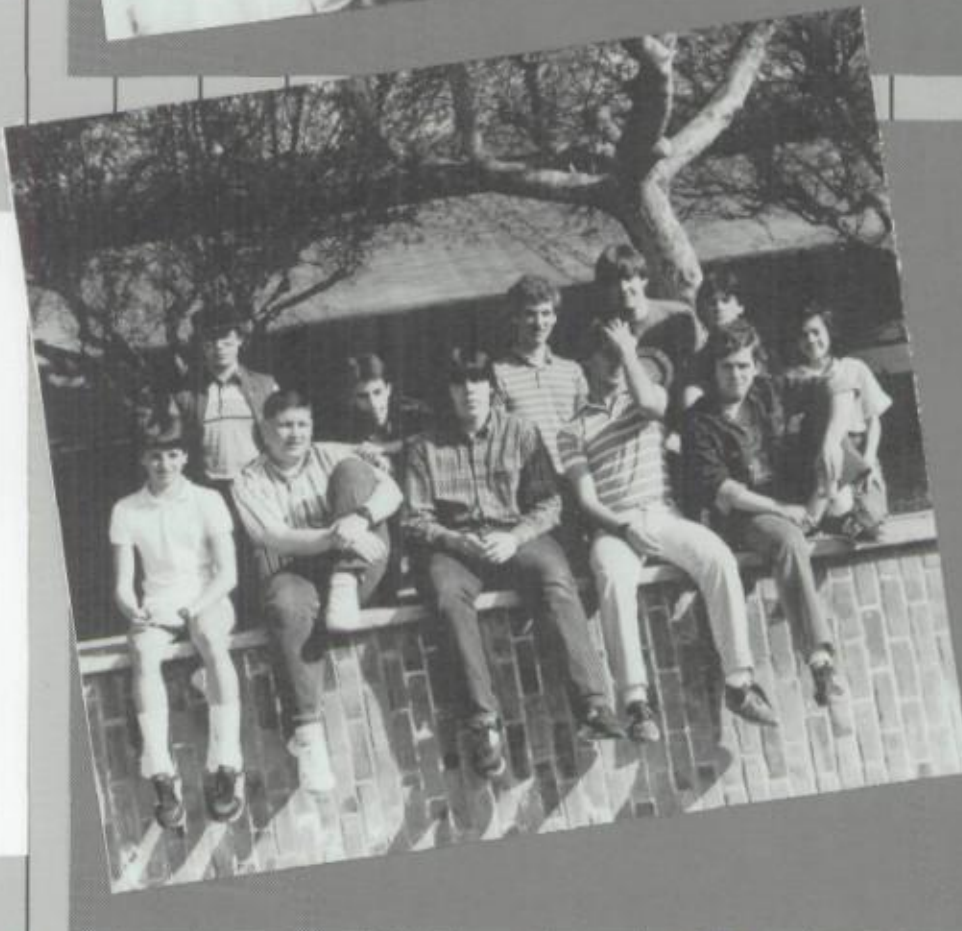

SAC

Society of American Cinema is for the movie critics of Lynbrook. They attend films as a group, hold discussions and publish an occasional newsletter.

Historical Simulations

Advised by Mr. Pugh the Historical Simulations Club enjoys playing games and recreating simulations. So, this club is for those who really enjoy board games.

Science Fiction Fantasy

Science Fiction Fantasy members use imagination to discover interesting science fiction and share it with one another.

Drama

The Drama Club is a new addition to Lynbrook this year. This club enjoys theatrical performances.

In the News . . .

This page is dedicated in memory of the seven American heroes killed in the Space Shuttle Challenger explosion: Astronauts Scobee, Smith, Jarvis, Onizuka, McNair, Resnick, and civilian McAuliffe. The pain and grief of the American people was felt worldwide on January 28, 1986, when those seven people died as the shuttle exploded over a minute into its flight. They will live in our hearts forever.

While we here at Lynbrook sat through this long 1985-86 school year, the world produced many shocking headlines. Airplane crashes soared to a record high with 1985 proving to be the deadliest in air flight history. Terrorism became a horrible reality with the hijacking of TWA flight 847. Soon it spread world-wide with the Jordanian Airliner in Beirut. The saddest part of the mideast political violence was that the innocent people paid the heaviest price. This was also the year when the deadly disease AIDS became a household name with the death of actor Rock Hudson. AIDS had become a scare to heterosexuals as well. Mexico suffered a cataclysmic disaster. The earthquake that destroyed much of Mexico proved to be devastating. On a more pleasant note, the California Lottery rolled into action this year. Also, the "Save Our Lady Campaign" was busy raising money for the restoration of Our Lady of Liberty for her 100th anniversary (1886-1986). Comet watchers scanned the skies for a glimpse of Halley's Comet. With the death of Soviet leader Andropov, Michal Gorbachev emerged to take command. This was also the first year when Dr. Martin Luther King's Day became a national holiday on January 20, 1986.

Astronauts Ellison S. Onizuka, Christa McAuliffe, Gregory B. Jarvis, Judith A. Resnik, Michael J. Smith, Francis R. Scobee and Ronald E. McNair

1985 was an exciting year in the world of entertainment. With Europe's talents combining to form bandaid in '84, the U.S. followed this year with USA for Africa. The historic concert Live Aid for African famine relief was a huge success. In the political scene, San Franciscan Mayor Diane Feinstein went to Russia; the royal couple, Lady Di and Prince Charles, came to Washington D.C. In the world of television, many new stars emerged, one of the most popular was Miami Vice with its leading hunk, Don Johnson. The Bill Cosby Show and Family Ties were also big hits. On the movie scene, the box office attractions included Back to the Future, Rambo, Rocky IV, and St. Elmo's Fire. People making headlines included "Refrigerator" Perry of the Chicago Bears. Another big news item was the marriage of The Boss. Yes, Bruce Springsteen finally tied the knot. Besides it being Disneyland's 30th anniversary, it was also Warner Brothers' 50th. Happy Birthday Bugs! And yes, the original formula, Classic Coke, is back—along with a few others!

To Chris: Devil Pups (OOHRAH), Good luck in the grunts (OOHRAH II), Boister, Puke Williams, Motar man. And OF COURSE Glenn: Foont & its 59 derivatives, BITS!, Hairy toes are rad, Tennis, Drums, Cosmic Wimpout, the Guide, Naughty Bits, "We have kidnapped Roland," UV & Iggy, my fellow California Merry Man (We laugh like this: HA!), Glenn's wife, Penguins, Albatross, BITS BITS BITS, Shave! And to all the other Wall garbage: Floyd, Doug, Grant, Hugh, Dmitri, Mr. Ed, Applecore (Baltimore), Trophy case, The girl who looks (FOONT FOONT), etc. I also give this to other wild folks, like Hisa (Hen Ernst Natas, MCI:2LL), Kirsten (Q! B. Coke & oatmeal! Sadie: Thanx!!), Phil Collins, BK, Sarah, Let's drive 88 soon!), Terry (Teddy B'Dell:Grafix was our destinies), Mandy (Let it be known that MANDY FLINGS TOAST), A.M.G. (Greetings!, HA!, Mysko, Party Time!, Popcorn, 4FR & FR), April (Thanks again for the boat ride . . . Where's the mistletoe?), and my best friends ever, Phil (MI) and Pat. And to Sarah (Such a doll!). Oh, yeah, and to all others that STILL have gone unnamed in this ad: You're the best! Thanks so much! Gotta jam, see ya bye!

Jeff . . . 86!!!

As a new part of our life begins
We'll be guided by our Lord above.
We will never forget you, friends,
For all your help and love.

We want to thank each one of you—
Our friends, teachers, and parents
For each encouraging, loving thing you do
And all the precious time you've spent.
Thanks again for all we share
And to our heavenly Father who's always there.

Love in Christ,

Gina and Chrissy

The friendship we have shared this year has been the best. The cuts, the parties, the fun. Especially, the Ferrari shop and Geloto's oreo-gasmic in Los Gatos.

Kirsten (Kiri, Kiwi, Q),

Remember when? You the 'friendly neighborhood freshman', and me the 'soph'! How I knew who MR. Right was (after knowing you just one day!) - and what about what I did about it? don't forget - the wall: the guys (my list) - your first football game (Miguelito and Miguel) - the dances - the flowers - the food fights (Martinelli and popcorn on the rally court steps!) spanish (callate!!!) - the long detours through Regency - Safeway - walks to 7/11 - my 16th birthday! (I still owe you one!) - the fights (Fresno & Round Table) - the times we should have talked - the dreams we had - govt - quad pack nights (you can't find what?) - the Pulsar-Santa Cruz (where are we- where did Rober go?) - Horoscopes - the poems - and everything else! Q, the only ladder to the stars is woven with dreams! Keep dreaming little sis! Hey green eyes you're the best!

Deb

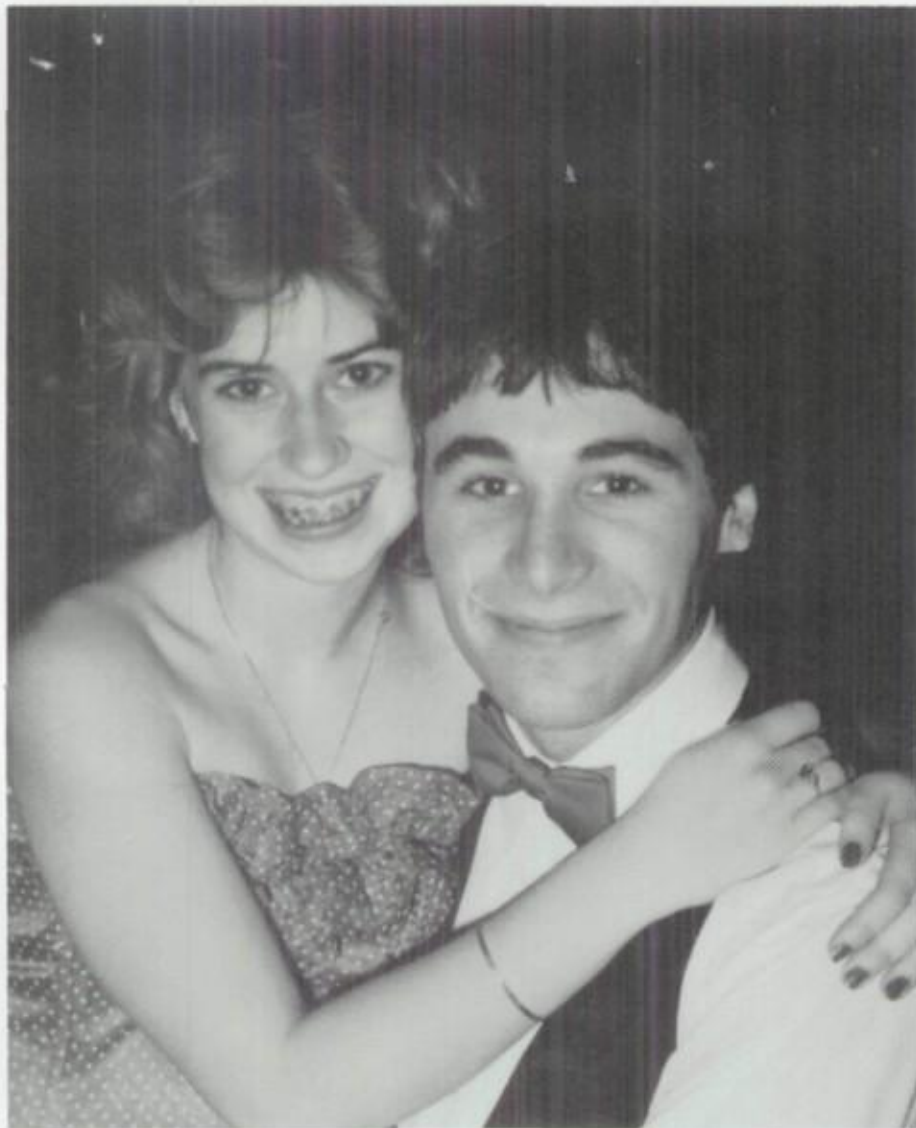

Gina,

My typewriter's better than yours! How do you say your last name? Where are you from? Marv was well was Marv (what did he say?) - and so was that can of Coke- Ugh! Next time, Charlie Browns will be packed at 5:30! He wore red?!!! Where's Denny's? Yes, he was obnoxious! She's wearing your dress! Poor, poor Mr. Suspenders (what was his name again?) How do you get to Oakridge? Nordstroms and the piano man?!! "She's over there, way over there!" Classes, classes, and classes- Econ, govt, cont lit (with granny) the conversations I never finished! With you, there was no boredom! Thanx!!!

Love ya,

Deb

P.S. What's a garbage hole?

William,

Walk with me along the path
Of dreams and future plans
We'll watch the sun come up and set
As we walk hand in hand
I'll guide you far and you guide me
Together, nights and days—
Until some force divides us up
To go our separate ways
Just walk with me from now 'til then Let me know your smile is there
To warm my heart and keep me safe,
And tell me that you care.

Love always,
Deborah (YSA)

My friends-

We've had some good times. Thanks for being my friends.

Especially to Lyn, Liz, Chel, Meesh

We've had some of the best times together. From Burger King, to British Lit, to J.C. Penney's to the infamous Lori Lovers society. Don't forget the horsey rides and the fun. Love you guys a lot.

Debbie,

Well, we survived Econ. and Government (?), couldn't have done it without you! Go ahead!! And he never knew about the Coke . . . And how can we forget about Mr. Suspenders and 1. falling out of her dress? By the way, how do you get to Denny's? We make a great team, babe, me with my X-rated mouth and you getting in trouble for me. What can I say—I love ya'!!! Gina

P.S. My typewriter is better than yours!!

Debbie-

Well Sis, we've come a long way together. Remember Biology? What would we have done without our friendly neighborhood computer error???? I really appreciate all of your love, support, and friendship in Job's Daughters. As we both know—we have had our differences!! But, I'm glad we're still great friends. Don't forget (Thanks to my best friend). Love ya lots!

Congratulations to the Class of '86 from the Class of '87. Good Luck!

What is our destination?

Finally, we have arrived at our destination . . . the end of the school year of 1985-86. Many have planned, talked, and maybe even feared this day. For the underclassmen, a crazy and fun high school future still awaits. For the senior class, four crazy and fun years lie behind. Nevertheless, school is out. And, as a surprise to many, there is a feeling of tearful separation. Although one might stress over and over how much school bothers him, one can never forget that possibly the biggest social occasion of his life is actually school. All those friends and companions will not meet together again for the next three months. It's no wonder that there is such a desire to not let go, although some of us CLEARLY need a vacation. We all want to hold on to all of those around that are so dear to us . . . and it's so tough to let go. However, the powers of friendship and affection will always stand the test of time and distance. We will always be together.

So now, the year is behind us, though it is definitely not forgotten, for we all have learned so much in the past year. No matter if it was our first high school year or our last, we have attained immeasurable knowledge, learning how to act, react, and interact with one another. There's no better people to learn all this with than equals. Other people, just like you, that could sympathize, compete, help, strain, struggle, and strive with you.

Have we changed?

Hey ya Jen.

Your a love able person. If you can remember back to B.O.C we were in the same class.

You all around fun person

I love you that's right

No matter who we are, we all grow and mature in this complex challenge of a teenage high school life. And there is no other way to describe such equality than family. Together, like a family, we have fought for ourselves, and (unfortunately) sometimes against ourselves. Such is family life. It just doesn't matter what anybody thinks about what 1600 high school students can or cannot attain. They don't know what we are and what we can do . . . only we know. We share it between us, a certain magic that binds us together and makes us tick . . . and no one else. Our family magic is our own collective secret. After absorbing and mastering this magic, each one of us contains a myriad of fantastically outrageous potential, and although we may get lonely and feel so powerless once out of this past school year, we are all assured that, somewhere deep inside of us, there lies this reserve force. It is entirely intangible. It's made of more than memories, more than just grades, and certainly more than how many photos of you are in the yearbook . . . this force is made up over 1600 inseparable students who are all equally challenged. Our secret is a sort of determination, a cameraderie that we all possess. No matter who or where we will wind up in the future, it will always keep us going. This secret of ours is Viking pride and spirit in its truest sense. LHS was, is, and always will be a part of our lives, and we will forever be part of the Viking family.

Son I don't want you to stop smilin'
I love you
Andrea

Should we celebrate?

Jen.
It has been real
great knowing you!
I'm glad you moved out here & I got a chance to know you! Dan likes me better, but we can find out for sure on tour.
You know

Every day, the future unfolds in a wild spectacle before our eyes. It grows with us, and as we grow to take on more responsibility and make more decisions, it generously offers these responsibilities to us and those decisions for us to make. We always feel so unprepared when these choices arise, but, if we take a long look at it all with a combination of seriousness and hilarious obscurity, we see that it's all so easy. We know what's going on. We're ready for what's going to happen. We're experienced students ... of teachers, society, each other, and ourselves. We have prepared each other for life's great adventures to come, and now, more than in any other point in our lives, we are ready. The future is here and now. We are young, wild, and free ... and devastatingly clever. We can't ignore opportunity. We gather our magic and stride through those passages, informally celebrating all along the way. We can jump through that door and land feet first in our futures ... futures that we all have helped each other conceive and develop. And instead of dreaming of these futures, we, the Lynbrook Vikes, can now live each of them to their fullest extent. We can't turn back because we know we can take anything on ... no matter if we know how or not. Previous experience is, in our case, a mere formality. And with our Viking spirit blazing inside each one of us, we can effortlessly conquer those futures ... where, as always, there is NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY.

How it is going to turn out...
ME!
Tour is going to be so much fun! We are going to have a blast! Also, the water ski trip will be a better & more of a blast! See you a lot, since we go to the same church!

♡ Graci

Colophon

The 21st Edition of the Valhalla was published by Herff Jones Yearbooks, A Division of Carnation Company, Logan Utah. There were over 1200 copies printed. The first 16 pages were printed on bordeaux paper and the rest on calais. Body copy was set in Helvetica Medium Italic typeface. Headline typefaces were chosen from the typebook according to sections of the Valhalla. The colors included on the cover are colonial blue, turquoise, gold, and black. Photos for "In the News" and "In the View" were reproduced from Time, U.S. News & World Report, and People.

Our Special Thanks

... to Tenny Garner for her help and support. Congratulations on being a new Mommy!
... to Cathy Cort for her patience and understanding during those "rushed" photo deadlines. Where would we be without our photos?
... to Mrs. Jensen for all her efforts in our benefit throughout the year and for keeping us on our toes with, "Are we going to make it?"
... to Mr. Sluga for his time, his room, and his computer.
... to Jeff Barto for the cover design.
... to Cullen Nicholson for his artwork.

*Sincerely,
 Paige Lewis and
 The Valhalla Staff*

Hi Jen,

It's me. I'm glad to have met you. (sounds original) Let's go out sometime. Church has been so much fun. I'm sorry to hear that things between you and Don didn't work out. Now that all the B.S. is out of the way. You are the nicest and the most friendly person in the whole world!! It's true. Have fun and enjoy the summer! Remember Run Your Own Race.
I'll walk.

Love ya lots.

Bar.

Jen non-
I'm glad we met!
I love having discussions w/ you on your floor (if barring). We have all sort of drifted - that sucks!
I think you are one of the sweetest people!
I heart you!

Jim Almberg

NICOLE

Love ya

Even though I didn't get to know you all that well, you seem like a really sweet person. You made French a lot funner. We'll probably be in the same French class next year if you take French III. Oh well, I hope you have a great summer, and I'll see ya next year!
903-5099

Jenn,
I'm glad I met you in French + swimming this year. You are really nice. Have a rad summer and see ya in Summer '86.

Love, Daniela

JEN, JEN, JEN, JEN
YOUR SO WONDERFUL, OH HI,
I CAN'T BELIEVE. WHY DON'T
THERE'S JENNNNN. TOGETHER
WE DO ANYTHING. WE GO
ANYMORE? WHY DON'T WE GO
DO SOMETHING? K? WEU GO
TAKE CARE. O' YOUR SELF.
LOVE-YA-LOTS
867-4208. SUE LINN

I loved you but I guess
You didn't feel the same towards me. Don't try to start anything
now. It's too late ~~now~~ I've changed.
I guess you could say I've matured.
Unlike some people. Let's stay friends.
I at least don't want to lose that.
Let's do lunch sometime.
Love always (1)

Love always (though you don't love me)

Super SAPH/

It was really great having you in my history class, I'm glad I met you this year because you're a great guy! Junior! wow I'll only be a sophomore but at least it's better than a Freshman, Luva always

Jennifer -

leave it to old Sondra Myers to ~~to~~ write like this. Oh well^{oops}, I'm so very happy that we met this year 'auz
you're a total sweetie!
Maybe next year we'll get to know each other better next year! Oh well - have a wonderful summer & a great time in Canada! See ya next year - ~~always~~ -

JENNIFER

THANKS FOR BEING SUCH A GREAT FRIEND! YOU DID A WONDERFUL
IMITATION OF A MONSTER. HAVE YOU BEEN PRACTICING? ANYWAYS, I ENJOYED TALKING WITH YOU DURING FRENCH,
YOU MADE IT PASS MUCH FASTER.
HAVE A WONDERFUL SUMMER, JENNIFER!

YOUR FRIEND ALWAYS,

Alex ☺ KA
